NUMB. 3195

WEDNESDAY, MAY 30, 1744.

Berlin, May 31.

IS Majesty arriv'd safely at Pyrmont on the 22d, where he will remain till about the 16th of next Month, and then return to this Capital. The Politicians will needs find out Mystery in every Motion of our Monarch, and have not failed to assign many singular Causes for this Journey. A cause, that which seems to have the greatest Appearance of Probability is, that his Majesty desires to stir out of the Way of disagreeable Importunities in Jundre; having fixed a Resolution not to interfere with the Disputes that disturb Europe at present; we are confirm'd in this from the Consideration of Orders which his Majesty has left behind him, that of the Foreign Ministers that arrive after his Departure should follow him, but remain here till his Return.

Some Overtures have been made to his Majesty in reference to the Affair of the Marquis de Botta, as if it would be kindly taken, if he interposed his good offices for adjusting the Differences that have arisen between the Courts of Moscow and Vienna, on that Nation's Account. But his Majesty absolutely declined it by declaring, that there was nothing more ardently desired, than the Preservation of the Friendship of either Court, and therefore he was resolved not to intermeddle in a Matter, which, however tenderly handled, might possibly embroil him with both. It is thought the Marriage of her Royal Highness the Princess Louisa will take Place sooner than was expected; it is said, that the Marriage between the Margrave of Brandenburg and the young Princess of Hesse, who is the beautiful Lady in Germany, is concluded likewise.

May 23. M. Vincent, the French Minister, is at present, on his Return for Paris; after having Left Levee of all the Foreign Ministers that are except One, who excused himself, when he came to His Vicere, by saying, That he was busy. Her Majesty sent his Passport to be made out by the Consul of this City, having had Intelligence, that his Passport was signed in like Manner by the Magistrate of Paris. The Count de Cinales, the new Minister here, having presented a Memorial, so farth, that the Expedition to Naples would be fruitless, in Case the combined Powers could pass a Passage thro' his Dominions, which it was not possible for him to prevent, if the Reinforcements expected by the Infant Don Philip arrived before those which he had demanded of her Majesty; upon which Council of State was immediately called, at the Residence of the King, a Courier was dispatch'd to Prince Lorraine, with Orders relative to that Memorial.

May 30. The French daily advance nearer nearer us; it is but a few Days ago, that a Detachment of their Hussars occupied Worms, and the Day before Yesterday 30 Bakers enter'd in; who began immediately to prepare several Ovens. Yesterday a Troop of Dragoons enter'd that Place, and To-day they expect the Van-Guard of the whole Army. The Design of the French is to hinder Prince Charles of Lorraine from crossing the Rhine near this City, tho' by the Way, it is at all certain, that his Highness intends to pass the River here; we therefore suspect, that their real Intent is to surprise this Place, if any Opportunity offers; which Reason his Electoral Highness has made all necessary Preparations to prevent its becoming an Conquest.

June 5. We are extremely uneasy here about Progress of the War in Flanders, into which country the French are continually marching small Bodies, join the respective Camps assign'd them, particularly that of M. de Harcourt, who certainly meditates a great Design. As to the Conduct of Count Waffensee we cannot yet say any thing positively; the following Letter, tho' of a stale Date, contains some Paragraphs that are very curious; the rather, because his Christian Majesty's Answer to that Minister's Hause has been false printed in most of the News-papers.

of a private Letter from Valenciennes, dated May 29, 1744.

The Reports that have been spread, in Relation to the Audience which the Count de Waffensee had of his Christian Majesty, are so various, that they are hard to be understood; and so ill founded, that they are not to be relied on. It may not therefore be amiss to clear up this Point, once for all, by giving the Publick a literal Account of all that passed upon that Occasion.

On the 16th of this Month Count Waffensee had an Audience at Little of his most Christian Majesty, to which he was introduced with the usual Ceremonies, and treated with the utmost Respect, at which Audience he delivered himself on the Subject of his Commission in the following Terms.

Sire,

The States General of the United Provinces, my Masters, have sent me to your Majesty, to give you the strongest Testimonies, the sincerest Assurances of their Respect, and of their Desire to encourage and cultivate more and more with your Majesty, that old good Intelligence, which the Treaties subsisting between your Majesty, and their High Mightinesses, as ought to render everlasting. It is upon this unalterable, upon this sacred Foundation, that their High Mightinesses fixt themselves with the firm Hope of preserving that Friendship, with which your Majesty has been constantly pleased to honour them from your Accession to the Throne. The just Inquietudes they feel from the Troubles, which agitate Europe, augment daily. Their High Mightinesses seeing with the most sensible Grief these Troubles, extend themselves even to their Frontiers. They therefore beseech your Majesty to contribute to the Re-establishment of Peace and Tranquility.

This, Sire, is the great End your Majesty Proposes. Their High Mightinesses have received repeated Assurances thereof on your Part. They most ardently wish to concer with your Majesty in the Re-establishment of a solid and equitable Peace. This is the great Object of my Ministry, and of this Letter which I have the Honour to present to your Majesty. How great my Happiness is, in acquitting myself of the Functions imposed on me by my Masters, I should render myself worthy your Majesty's Protection."

The King heard him with great Attention, and looked upon him all the Time he was speaking. As soon as he had made an End of his Harangue, the King made him the following Answer, which was afterwards deliver'd to him in Writing.

The States General could not have made choice of any Body more agreeable to me, Sir, than you are, whose personal Qualities are well known to me. All the Steps I have taken towards your Republike, since my Accession to my Throne, ought to have made her sensible of the Desire I have to maintain a sincere Friendship, and perfect Correspondence, with her. I have long enough shewn my Inclination for Peace, but the less I appeared disposed to War, the less your Republic hath been willing to co-operate with me. My Ministers will report to me the Commission with which you are charged, and, after I shall have communicated it to my Allies, I shall let your Masters know my definitive Resolutions thereupon.
